

Apprenticeship programs benefit workers by giving them the opportunity to “earn while they learn” and benefit employers by providing employees who are skilled in their trade or occupation.

Most apprenticeship programs are in the construction industry. DLI is committed to supporting existing apprenticeship programs, expanding programs to other industries and increasing the number of women and minorities in apprenticeship programs.

Registered apprentices

Women, minority participation

